VOLUME 26, NUMBER 40

The Humiliation of Christ

The title for this article is an expression that is commonly used to refer to the earthly life of Jesus Christ in contrast to His pre-existent state in heaven with the Father and His subsequent exaltation after His death, burial, and resurrection. In other words, Christ's "humiliation" began with His incarnation and ended when He sat down at the right hand of God (cf. Phil. 2:6-11; Heb. 1:3; 10:12).

The fact of Christ's "humiliation" was more than suggested in certain statements made by the Lord Himself. In His conversation with Nicodemus, Jesus said, "No one has ascended into heaven except He who descended from heaven, the Son of Man" (John 3:13). Later, He asked the following question of His disciples: "Then what if you were to see the Son of Man ascending to where He was before?" (John 6:62). In John 16:28, Jesus brings the previous two sentiments together: "I came forth from the Father and have come into the world; I am leaving the world again and going to the Father." In harmony with Jesus' own statements and the declared facts of our Lord's stay upon this earth, the apostle Paul said, "He humbled himself" (Phil. 2:8). But what exactly did Christ's "humiliation" involve?

First of all, Christ voluntarily left heaven to come to earth (Phil. 2:6-7). He chose not to hold onto equality with God; consequently, He became poor for our sake (2 Cor. 8:9). Secondly, not only did He enter into union with human nature, but Christ also became subject to the same temptations and sufferings of mankind, though refraining from sin (Heb. 4:14-16; Rom. 8:3). In essence, God, in the form of man, became vulnerable. Third, Christ was "born under the law" (Gal. 4:4-5), meaning that He was subjected to the legal measures and obligations appropriate only for human beings. Fourth, Christ became the representative of sinners (2 Cor. 5:21). He stood in our place—a place He did not deserve. Fifth, Christ sacrificed Himself by dying on a cross of supreme humiliation (Matt. 27:33-50; Heb. 12:2). Even His own Father who sent Him to earth arguably had to look away (Matt. 27:46). All these things are compounded by the fact that while on this earth, He was persecuted, scorned, mocked, questioned, disrespected, rejected, and beaten.

On this side of eternity, we will never be able to comprehend fully the significance and far-reaching implications of the Son's choice to leave heaven, come to earth, live among men, and die by their hands. What I can comprehend, though, is that He did it for you and me. He did it so that you and I might live with Him forever in the place from which He came and later returned (Heb. 2:5-18).

Kevin Chaney

Saying thank you for all your kind words and deeds seems so inadequate.

Mom enjoyed each and every card she received from Pulaski Street. She also enjoyed her many visitors. She especially enjoyed her visits with Dillon Markus and Jacob Evans.

After her passing, we were overwhelmed by the outpouring of love expressed to us through cards, flowers, phone calls, texts, food, and visits. The delicious meal that was prepared and served to our family prior to the visitation was so thoughtful and helpful.

We also appreciate the many prayers on our behalf. It is such a comfort knowing others are praying for you.

The church at Pulaski Street has certainly been a blessing to us during this difficult time. In Him,

Mark and Kristi Miller and family
Shelley and Kenney Campbell and family

Closing it out:

If everything goes according to plan, this will be the last bulletin article that I write as a daddy of only one daughter. Good Lord willing, Amelia will be making her arrival on Monday, October 12, 2015, if not before!

Expecting a second daughter has been a good bit easier so far (well, for me at least...ha!). We already have lots of clothes, toys, and a room set up for a baby girl. We haven't had to buy furniture or paint a room. For the most part, everything is ready to go! Now we just wait. There is something about the excitement of a baby that can't be duplicated in any other way. There are certainly many things in life that we can get excited about, but new life has a level of excitement, joy, and happiness that exceeds almost any other earthly thing.

The Bible reveals that there is that kind of excitement over new life in heaven as well. Luke 15:7, 10 tells of the joy in heaven over new life. When a sinner repents, there is joy in the presence of God. I can only imagine that scene of angels rejoicing over the repentance of one that is lost. But, what I imagine isn't all that different than the scene that plays out when a child is born. People embrace and love that child. There is joy. There is happiness. Perhaps if we started viewing people finding new spiritual life in a way similar to the way we feel about the new life of a newborn baby, we would be more interested in helping people find that new spiritual life.

Until next time,

Jeremy
