VOLUME 31, NUMBER 2

January 16, 2020

A Request from the Flames

In Luke 16:19-31, Jesus shares one of His most sobering stories about an unnamed rich man and a poor man named Lazarus. In time, both died, and both ended up in a realm that Scripture refers to as Hades, but their specific placement was different. The poor man rested comfortably in Abraham's bosom. The rich man writhed in torment.

Imagine if the staff of 60 Minutes could take their television cameras to this place of torment and provide a visual and audible report of the condition of those so confined to this place. While it is not possible to capture a film clip of what it is like to die estranged from God, we do have Scripture to provide us with a glimpse. In vs. 24, the rich man cries out, "Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus to dip the end of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am in anguish in this flame." Don't allow your heart to be calloused to this man's cry. It's ghastly. It's a horrific picture, but Jesus wants us to see it. This man ended up in a place to which no one should want to go.

Perhaps predictably, the rich man develops an evangelistic fervor and cries out to Abraham, "I beg you, father, to send [Lazarus] to my father's house—for I have five brothers—so that he may warn them, lest they also come into this place of torment" (vv. 27-28). What a request! This man doesn't want his loved ones to end up where he is. Abraham essentially tells the rich man that it's too late for him to do anything about his brothers. In Abraham's mind, the testimony of God-breathed Scripture suffices (vv. 29-31). If the rich man's brothers aren't willing to listen to the testimony of Scripture, then not even the preaching of a former dead man would change their hearts.

The urgency is palpable, isn't it? There's motivation for evangelism in this account. The rich man's request from the flames should prick our hearts. It should stir us to action. Surely you know of some people who need you to assume the role of a reconciler between them and God now and not later. I know I do.

Closing it out...

One of the lessons that I learned growing up that still stands out in my mind is that it is important to take care of your stuff. I can remember hearing my dad telling me, "You've got to take care of your equipment," and "You won't be getting another one, so take care of this one," and things like that. It's an important lesson to learn. Many of the things that we possess here on this earth are not easily replaceable, and when we have to replace them, the process can be quite costly.

Wouldn't it be nice if our most useful possessions lasted forever and we never had to worry about replacing them? Well, the things that we have on earth will always be subject to wear and tear. Any earthly thing will eventually lose its luster. Our future, however, will last forever!

In 1 Cor. 9:24-25, Paul talks about the crown that we compete for and describes it as imperishable. In 2 Cor. 5:1, he describes our future home as eternal and in the heavens. The Hebrews writer, in 9:15, speaks of the blood of Christ providing obedient followers with an eternal inheritance. Peter, in 1 Pet. 1:3-4, tells us that having been born again, we have access to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, unfading, and kept in heaven for us.

What a great blessing it is to know that the thing that we can possess that matters most in this life is something that will never fade! It will not wear out. It won't be ruined because we don't take care of it.

Are you living the life that God would desire of you so that you can receive that eternal blessing? Until next time,

Jeremy Gargis

PRAYERS ARE REQUESTED

As of Tuesday, January 14:

MARTHA BELEW continues in hospice care at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Greg and Shannon Yokley. If you'd like to visit, PLEASE CALL Greg at 931-212-9247 or Shannon at 931-797-1675 FIRST. Please limit your visit to no more than 30 minutes. c/o Greg Yokley, 3807 Stonecrest Drive, Columbia, TN 38401.
