Divine Omnipresence Analyzed

To say that God is omnipresent is to affirm that all of God is simultaneously present everywhere to everyone (Jer. 23:23-24; Psalm 139:7-10; Acts 17:26-28). This alone is hard to wrap our minds around, but other concepts and considerations often invade discussions of divine omnipresence that can blow our minds even more.

God does not have a body. Divine omnipresence necessarily entails the idea that God does not have a body, i.e., God is incorporeal. It is difficult to conceive of how God could be omnipresent if we impute to Him a body, for a body necessarily entails some measure of spatial limitation, despite however "large" or "big" it may be. Although being bodiless appears to be a necessary entailment of omnipresence, we also have Jesus' explicit teaching that "God is spirit" (John 4:24), which suggests that God is immaterial and invisible. [As some theologians ironically say, God is "simple," meaning that He has no physical body that can be divided into parts.] The inability to detect God with our five senses is troubling for some, especially in an age dominated by science and empirical evidence. By being immaterial and invisible, God is out of sight and runs the risk of being out of mind. While we cannot detect God with our five senses, He is still very much real and present.

God is both immanent and transcendent. Though God is present everywhere, He transcends the created order and is distinct from it, contra Pantheism. He is both inside space and outside space. God is sometimes described in Scripture as being localized in heaven (cf. Deut. 26:15; Ps 11:4; Matt. 6:9) or manifesting Himself in a visible way in various localities in the way of a theophany (cf. Gen. 18:16-33; 32:22-32; Exod. 13:21-22; 33:18-23), yet neither of these realities should be interpreted in such a way as to negate the doctrine of divine omnipresence. The former instances seem to emphasize God's transcendence, while the latter occasions not only remind us of God's immanence and involvement in space and time, but they also establish the fact that God's presence in certain localities has sometimes emerged from behind the veil of invisibility to bless or punish people. In discussions of divine omnipresence, we should take pains to explain that God is not only immanent within His creation, but He also transcends above it.

God is with believers in a special way. We should not deny the reality of divine omnipresence, even though Scripture often speaks of God being present with the righteous and absent from the wicked (cf. Prov. 15:29). Such exclamations are essentially ethical in nature. In fact, Isaiah 59:1-2 reads, "Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save, or his ear dull, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have made a separation between you and you God, and your sins have hidden his face from you so that he does not hear." Thus, the language of absence and presence appears to be one of relationship or fellowship rather than presence.

This discussion can also be tied to the selective indwelling of the Trinity. Not only is the Holy Spirit often described as indwelling believers (Rom 8:9; 1 Cor 3:16; 6:19; 2 Tim 1:13-14), but the same can also be said for both the Father and the Son (John 14:20, 23; Eph 4:6; Gal 2:20; Col 1:27). So, while the Triune God is present everywhere, He is somehow with Christians in a special way. It seems best to uphold the idea that God is in Christians in the sense of being in fellowship with their spirits. By looking at it his way, we avoid the problem of thinking that God is housed or contained within Christians, which not only contradicts certain passages of Scripture (Acts 7:47-48; 17:24), but also aids us in maintaining our affirmation of divine omnipresence.

"And as you wish that others would do to you, do so to them.

If you love those who love you, what benefit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them.

And if you do good to those who do good to you, what benefit is that to you? For even sinners do the same."

Vacation Bible School 2021!

PEANUT BUTTER DRIVE FOR HAITI

Please donate to this very worthy endeavor. The jars of peanut butter we donate are transported to Haiti and directly benefit the lives of children by increasing the amount of protein in their diets. Donating money will allow us to purchase the most peanut butter, because we can buy at a bulk rate. If you prefer, feel free to donate jars of peanut butter that you have purchased yourself.

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 6, FINAL NIGHT

- We will begin in the auditorium with songs and awards.
- After awards have been presented, we will assemble under the tent on the Parkes lawn (weather permitting) to witness individuals receive pies in the face. (This is based on the amount of money donated toward peanut butter for Haiti.)
- For our final night picnic/meal, Cam and Kristen Mashburn will be providing barbeque for everyone. Drinks and chips will also be provided. Please bring sides that will go well with barbeque, such as buns, baked beans, potato salad, slaw, and desserts.

July 4th-9th - Horizons at FHU! Please keep those attending in your prayers for this week!

When I was writing this on Monday morning, Vacation Bible School had just kicked off the night before. What a great night it was! We had 347 people in attendance! So many people do so much to make this week such a success, and we are grateful for your contributions!

I wish that all of you could have seen the 45 people from the teens class cramming into a skit room to watch Learning Center #3 teach about the 10 Plagues! It was quite cramped, but so awesome!

We may have been forced to skip it for a year, but Sunday night made it clear that Pulaski Street hasn't forgotten how to put on an awesome VBS!

Keep up the good work!

Until next time,
Jeremy
