Pushing Past Failure

Sparky didn't have much going for him. He failed every subject in the eighth grade, and in high school, he flunked Latin, algebra, English, and physics. He made the golf team but promptly lost the most important match of the season and then lost the consolation match. He was also awkward socially. While in high school, he never once asked a girl to go out on a date.

Only one thing was important to Sparky—drawing. He was proud of his artwork even though no one else appreciated it. He submitted cartoons to the editors of his high school yearbook, but they were turned down. Even so, Sparky aspired to be an artist. After high school, he sent samples of his artwork to Walt Disney Studios. Again, he was turned down.

Still, Sparky didn't quit! He decided to write his own autobiography in cartoons. The character he created became famous worldwide—the subject, not only of cartoon strips, but countless books, television shows, and licensing opportunities.

Sparky was Charles Schulz, creator of the Peanuts comic strip. Like his main character, Charlie Brown, Schulz seemed unable to accomplish many things. But rather than letting rejection stop him, he made the most of what he could do!

Like Sparky, we can push past negativity and failure. A clean slate with God will enable us to create a success story that will be read in heaven! Try it.

thank you

Thanks, Jeremy and the youth who helped do the widows and widowers “special evening.” The good devo, singing, prayers, fellowship, food – it was all wonderful. It was so good to visit with our youth and to see how they showed their love and care for us. I really do appreciate all the love shown to us and the work and thoughts for us.

In Christian love, Hazel Violet

Had a great supper Wednesday. Very encouraging to see such a great group of kids and the great job [Jeremy] and their teachers are doing. Keep up the good work.

GOOD THOUGHTS

True humility is not thinking less of yourself; it is thinking of yourself less.

Henry Ford said, “If I had asked people what they wanted, they would have said ‘faster horses.’”

At the close of Matthew 9, we see the heart of Jesus on full display. As he was traveling throughout all of the cities and villages teaching and proclaiming the good news, he was also healing those who had infirmities, according to Matthew 9:35. It was clear that he wanted to impart knowledge, while also improving the lives of the people he encountered.

In the next verse, we can read what his actions had already proved. According to Matthew 9:36, “...he had compassion on them...” He genuinely cared for them because he saw them as being lost without someone to help them or guide them. They were sheep without a shepherd. They were harassed. They were helpless.

In Matthew 9:37-38, Jesus points out to his disciples that there were many who needed help and good news but not enough people to provide those things, and he encouraged them to pray for more workers.

The expectation for Christians to continue offering help and bringing good news continues today! Many Christians don't take that responsibility personally. We must all be willing to take part in these things if we want to please God and bring others to Him! Are you willing not only to pray for those who share the good news with others and for more messengers, but also to be one who shares that good news? Jesus expects it of us, and lost souls are depending on it!

Follow Jesus' example and teachings! Have compassion on others, put forth effort to meet their needs, share the good news with them, and pray for more people to do the same!

Until next time...Jeremy
