A Vicarious Crucifixion

To speak of an act as "vicarious" is to say that the act is performed or suffered by one person as a substitute for another or to the benefit or advantage of another. That Jesus in some way stood in our place—that Jesus was our Substitute when He died—is affirmed in many places in Scripture.

Isaiah 53 is undoubtedly a prophecy about Jesus (cf. Acts 8:26-35), written some 700 years before He was born into the world. The language of substitution is employed throughout: "But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was crushed for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned everyone to his own way; and the Lord has laid on him the iniquity of us all."

The apostle Peter employs the language of Isaiah 53 in 1 Peter 2:24-25: "He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed. For you were straying like sheep, but have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer of your souls" (cf. 1 Pet. 3:18). On several occasions, the apostle Paul employs the language of substitution in describing the death of Jesus (Rom. 5:6-10; 2 Cor. 5:21; Gal. 1:4; 2:20; 3:13). The Hebrews writer says that Jesus was "offered once to bear the sins of many" (Heb. 9:28). Perhaps the most shocking testimony to the vicarious, or substitutionary, nature of Jesus' crucifixion fell from the lips of the high priest that orchestrated Jesus' crucifixion (John 11:50-52).

Much more could be said, but these passages surely demonstrate that one strand of New Testament teaching about Jesus' demise at Golgotha insists that Jesus didn't just take Barabbas's place that Friday; He took everyone's place at His crucifixion. Jesus volunteered to undergo crucifixion and be punished not for any sins that He committed but for the sins that we committed (2 Cor. 5:14-15). Imagine just for a moment what this world would be like if everyone alive acknowledged and appreciated what Jesus did for them that Friday at Golgotha.

Closing it out:

Last week was Fall Break for our children who are in the Lawrence County School System. Many of our children were able to go on trips, get extra hours at work, and spend extra time with friends and family. Another thing that many took the opportunity to do was to get more rest than they do during a typical week.

Physically speaking, rest is important. It has many benefits! Rest reduces stress, helps our immune system, and gives us the necessary energy to be active after the rest.

The physical advantages that rest provides don't compare with the spiritual blessing of true rest! Jesus provides a rest that words fail to describe. We would do well to take the rest that He offers.

“Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

Matthew 11:28-30

Until next time,
Jeremy Gargis
